A Knight of Murder

Hear ye! Hear ye!
All ye Kings and Queens,
Knights and Nobles!

A tournament celebration is planned to honor the noble marriage of Baron Bartholomew to Lady Diana of Dunnsberry in the manor of Fernwood. As a resident of the manor, you are not only invited to be there, but your attendance is required by the request of your lord.

Whether it is to see knights jousting or to partake in the ale and entertainment, your business is but your own... that is until you find yourself in the middle of a murder.

With only one night to find the guilty, you will soon figure out that there is a lot more at stake, for murder in the manor is punishable by death. Whether you are guilty or not, there will be others trying to finger you as the culprit as you try to find the real murderer, and only you can defend your innocence. Whom do you trust? Who will betray you before the night is through? Everyone is a suspect and no one is safe in this mystery of medieval madness.

Be careful in attending.
Your life will depend not only
on your innocence,
but your ability to defend it.

Join us for an evening of mystery & mayhem in the Middle Ages

Rules in the Manor of Fernwood

Whether this is your first murder mystery experience or your fortieth, each murder mystery experience is different and has different rules pertaining. Here are some tips to make sure this evening is an unforgettable experience.

Read Your Character Sheet—This contains your identity and all the information you will need to play your part.

Don't Reveal Everything About Your Character—While there are many things that everyone needs to know about you, there are some things that should remain secret. Use your discretion to not give too much away-- you may find out at the party that you are the killer indeed!

Dress The Part— It's a proven fact that the more into character you are the easier it will be for you to truly enjoy all the aspects of the night. It also adds to the excitement, the photo opps, and your chance to be voted best dressed. Please see www.nightofmystery.com for ideas on costuming.

Review the Announcements—Included in this invite will be manor announcements. Review this page, it includes background information (such as the other characters attending), which may come in useful the night of the party.

Use Your Money Creatively—Upon arrival, you will receive gold coins to spend any way you choose. Bribery and blackmail are two of the most common uses we found (and highly encouraged). The wealthiest player at the end of the night will also receive an award for their ability to turn a profit.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

It is by decree of the lord and lady of Fernwood that the people of the manor are invited and ordered to attend the noble marriage of their son, Baron Bartholomew, to Lady Diana of Dunnsberry. The wedding is to take place on December Second, the one year anniversary of their meeting. A tournament of jousting pleasure is to follow to commemorate this momentous occasion in which the victorious knight will be awarded many riches plus the lady of his choice as escort for the celebration that night. Those expected to be in attendance are as follows:

Queen Genevieve-Queen. As ruler of this prosperous kingdom, Genevieve is well liked by everyone. It's hard to have many enemies when the punishment of betrayal is death!

Lord Taylor-Lord of the Manor. In celebration of his only son's marriage to the noblewoman of his choosing, Lord Taylor is determined to host a tournament of epic proportions.

Lady Gwendolyn-Lady of the Manor. Gwendolyn is delighted for the approaching tournament. To Gwendolyn, the celebration symbolizes prosperity and happiness and a chance to marry off her only son to another noble.

Baron Bartholomew-Son to the lord and lady. The tournament is planned in honor of his marriage to another noble on the one year anniversary of his and Diana's meeting. Baron's only regret is that he must marry for wealth instead of love.

Lady Diana of Dunnsberry-Noblewoman. Diana arrived in Fernwood on a quest for a husband. While her heart is now satisfied, another's may now be broken.

Maid Marilyn-Lady-In-Waiting. As Lady Gwendolyn's right-hand woman, Marilyn is like a daughter to the lady. Like a true mother, Gwendolyn will do anything to ensure Marilyn's happiness.

Sir Cameron-Knight. Sir Cameron is looking forward to entertaining and fighting for his honor in the manor tournament. If Cameron wins, rumor is that he will be asking for the favor of Maid Marilyn.

Sir Rufus-Knight. Sir Rufus is looking to boost his unfavorable reputation in the manor lands with a victory over Sir Cameron in the tournament. A triumph will not only win him the favor of a maid, but the popularity which that desires.

Joking Jerry-Court Jester. Jerry is commissioned to make everyone laugh. But at what cost does a laugh turn deadly?

Willie the Watchman-Manor Watchperson. As the guardian for the lord and his manor lands, Willie will be the force that keeps anyone from getting out of hand at the tournament.

Charlamagne-Chambermaid. Occupying the lowest tier of servant-hood in the castle, Charlamagne has unlimited access to all areas of the castle—a privilege others do not possess. While Charlamagne's knowledge of the intimate sections of the castle may be to her advantage, they may also be her ticket to trouble.

Maid Monica-Maid. Since Monica has always caught the Baron's eye (and heart), she assumed a marriage was impending. While Monica's marriage has been arranged, it is not to the person she desires.

Other announcements by the lord: An arranged marriage between Sir Rufus to Maid Monica to take place next month. Anyone not attending the wedding and celebration will be considered a traitor and will be banished from the manor.

Laws of the Land

As set forth by Queen Genevieve on how his kingdom is to be ruled

I. Betrayal of the queen is punishable by death!!!

II. The lord's word is law in his manor

- a. The only person who can overrule a lord is the queen.
- b. A manor consists of a castle, church and the surrounding lands granted to the lord by the queen.

III. Everyone that makes earnings must tithe a percentage of their earnings to the queen

- a. Percentages are set by the queen.
- b. Tithes (taxes) are collected by Sir Rufus in compliance with the wishes of the queen.

IV. The manor is to be run with a system as follows:

- a. Lords & Ladies—granted land from the queen and may run the manor as they see fit. They award land to the vassals and knights in exchange for protection from invaders. Among their duties are arranging marriages within their manor and administering justice.
- b. Vassals & Knights—are awarded land from the nobles of the manor. They are free to farm the land or pay peasants to do so. They may also have serfs that live on and farm their land.
- c. Peasants—often live in huts outside the castle walls and work on land owned by vassals or knights for a percentage of the profits. They still have their freedom, but own no land.
- d. Serfs—they are slaves to the lord for life. They farm the land for food and shelter, they are not allowed to have earthly possessions and in order to gain any freedom, they must escape and live one year plus one day in another manor. They are never required to fight, but are guaranteed protection from invaders. They need permission to marry.

V. Tournaments are to be a time of great celebration

- a. To be held to honor such events as coronation, a noble marriage or to boost the economy of a manor.
- b. The victorious knight may request the favor of any lady at the celebration. She will then be his escort for the evening.

Charlamagne

As the chambermaid for the castle, you spend your days cleaning the castle and emptying chamber pots. While you appreciate the fact that having this job allows you to live at the castle, your days of feeling as though you will be promoted simply because of your loyalty and hard work to Lord Taylor and Lady Gwendolyn (the lord and lady) are well over.

This realization occurred to you when Maid Marilyn was appointed as Lady Gwendolyn's lady-in-waiting instead of you. Since, you have resented Maid Marilyn and her tight relationship with Lady Gwendolyn. This lack of promotion ruined your chances of social advancement, and you are beginning to realize that hard work and loyalty will get you nowhere under Lord Taylor's rule.

With that in mind, you have befriended Sir Rufus, a new knight to the manor. After observing Sir Rufus' actions, you can sense that he plans to get ahead as well by any means possible – something you have in common. Knowing this, you have agreed to work together to gain status in the manor. Being the chambermaid, Sir Rufus has asked you to gain access to Sir Cameron's room and to alter his armor before the tournament so that Sir Rufus has a better chance at wounding Sir Cameron in the joust. In return, Sir Rufus promised to ask for your favor that night if, indeed, he does win the tournament. Being the escort of Sir Rufus (a knight) will definitely be a step up the ladder to a higher place in the class system, so you have agreed to help him. You are aware that your betrayal of Sir Cameron may come back to haunt you, but you are willing to take that chance for the betterment of your life. In addition, the defeat of Sir Cameron will also be a defeat of Maid Marilyn – for you know she is in love with Sir Cameron.

Additionally, to help advance your goals, you have agreed to help Sir Rufus who believes that Queen Genevieve (the queen) will grant him rule over the manor if he can prove that Lord Taylor is not running a prosperous and peaceful land. As part of your agreement, you will try to convince Queen Genevieve that Lord Taylor is not doing an adequate job at running the manor in return for him arranging a marriage to yourself, once he is lord.

As the tournament celebration approaches, you find yourself excited for the event. With Queen Genevieve in attendance, it will be the perfect time for you to fulfill your part of the agreement with Sir Rufus. It is a big night for you for if Sir Rufus wins the tournament, you expect him to ask for your favor that night. The victorious knight always chooses one of the maids for their escort. By the end, you hope to be on top! (Or at least not cleaning chamber pots anymore.)

Acting and Dressing Your Part: As a servant in the castle, you spend your days cleaning and tidying up and also taking out the chamber pots. You were once a happy and loyal worker, but have since become bitter after realizing your fate is to remain a servant. This realization has made you vindictive and sneaky and you plan to use whatever means necessary to get ahead at the tournament party. This is a celebration, so you can dress in your medieval best, although, as a servant, that is not the fanciest of clothes. For more information, including on ideas on how to dress, who will be at the party, some olde English words to use, etc., please see the party tips page at www.nightofmystery.com or www.aknightofmurder.com
